(401kWire.com) — If you're looking to learn about working with retirement plans, why not do it in San Diego? Financial Service Standards is offering its two-day 401k Service Training Program in the southern California city on April 24 and 25. Those who pass it earn the Professional Plan Consultant designation.

The course lasts a total of 16 hours over the two days, and even gives attendees 12 continuing education credits for CFPs and CPAs. It takes place at the Westin Horton Plaza, and the $3,000 price includes the designation itself, licensing fee, materials, training, and room and board. The course is meant for plan advisors and consultants, as well as benefits administrators, and requires at least three years of financial experience.
